Thanking Tom and Joseph!

Dear Editor,

The Positive Gourmet has been providing food services, attorney services, hair cuts at home, medical supplies for the sick room, notary service, and social service referrals to those afflicted with HIV and the AIDS virus since 1994. Through the generous support of the Safeway Corp., provider of the bulk of our food supply, and members of our community, the Positive Gourmet has been able to provide these services on a "shoe string" budget since its conception.

Thank you Tom and Joseph for providing storage space for our food program during its receipt and ultimate distribution to those in need.

Your generous contribution and support has allowed us to continue offering these services, for which we are grateful and thankful.

We also wish to acknowledge your continued financial support through the various fund raising events that have occurred at "The Bolt". These monies have been critical to our continued existence,

Cordially,
Thomas Vasques
Executive Director
Sacramento

Thanks For The Help

Dear Editor,

The Sacwn steering committee would like to express our sincere thanks for your generous support over the last several months.

It is a pleasure working with you on behalf of our community, and we look forward to doing so for many years to come.

Warm regards,
SACWN Steering Committee
Sacramento

CORRECTION NOTICE

Dear Editor,

My letter in the June issue of MGW, I incorrectly had the names The Bolt owners misspelled.

The correct spelling is Tom Doherty & Joseph Migliaccio.

Thank you.

New Nursery

Dear Editor,

You should come and visit the new nursery in Herald (Galt) and see what we're doing! The Benefit Sales will double in size and selection! It will be awhile before I get local sales open again - Lots to do at the nursery first! We plan to open in July! Thanks for all your support!

Supreme Court Decision

Dear Editor,

For those interested in reading the full text of the sweeping and incredibly significant United States Supreme Court decision on the matter of school harassment, hit the hyperlink "http://supct.law.cornell.edu/supct/html/97-843.ZO.html" No. 97-843:Davis v. MONROE COUNTY BD. OF ED.

In his dissent, Justice Kennedy suggested that the majority decision will strike fear into the hearts of school boards and administrators when they fail to remedy known cases of harassment and create a crushing financial burden of monetary liability on the school districts that do not intervene in student-student harassment cases.

Perhaps this fear and financial burden will be sufficient motivation for school boards and administrators to finally deal with the matter with serious intent!

Sheila Needs Our Support

Dear Editor,

It seems as if I just got sworn in for my third term in the best job I've ever known, and now I'm writing to you looking ahead to an election less than a year away. It's official: I'm running for State Senate in the March, 2000 primary.

Term limits have a way of making legislators think ahead and say, what is the best thing to do next? My final term will be complete at the end of the next year, and so will that of State Senator Tom Hayden. I want to keep representing the 41st District, and hope to be able to add the rest of the 23rd State Senate District: West Hollywood, Studio City, Westwood, Beverly Hills, Sherman Oaks, Bel Air, Van Nuys, Hollywood and Hancock Park.

We have known so many victories together since we restored the Democratic majority to the Assembly. I have been fortunate, too, to have been part of the Assembly leadership as Speaker Pro Tem and, this year, as Chair of the Judiciary Committee. Now with a Democratic Governor, our hopes are even higher and the Speaker has asked me to take the lead in:

• Overhauling the entire state child support enforcement system

• Overseeing the Assembly's plans for HMO reform with the Chair of the Health Committee as Chair of the Select Committee on Entertainment and the Arts, crafting a win-win solution to runaway production that will help restore and protect the jobs of thousands of people in our vital entertainment industry.

My race will not be an easy one. There will be an arduous, expensive and hotly contested primary race against a well-funded incumbent Assembly member. The 23rd Senate District covers an enormous swath of LA County and we have to repeatedly reach more than 400,000 voters. The primary alone will cost over a million dollars.

I am proud to kick off with the endorsement of Senator Barbara Boxer and will announce more endorsements as we go along.

I am counting on you to help me continue my service in the state legislature. You can play a part by writing your check today and sending it to: Kuehl for Senate, 6305 Yucca St., Suite 606, LA, Ca. 90028.

Sincerely,
Sheila Kuehl

Transgendered American Murders on the Rise

New evidence of an alleged murder involving a gay-identified transgendered victim has surfaced in Tampa, Florida. The developments in Florida are the latest addition to the growing list of crimes committed against the transgendered community.

Compared to the murders of Matthew Shepard and Billy Jack Gaither, both openly gay men who were killed because of their sexual orientation, the murders and suspected murders of transgendered people over the last year have received far less focus and attention. Yet there has been no lack of victims; tragedies in the past year alone include Rita Hester, stabbed twenty times, near Boston; Vianna Faye Williams, murdered in Jersey City, stabbed repeatedly in the back, neck and chest; in March, Tracey Thompson was found bludgeoned to death in south Georgia. "Many Americans regard differently-gendered people with hatred and misunderstanding. This will continue to lead to violence if we do not take steps now," said Riki Anne Wilchins, Executive Director of GenderPAC. Wilchins added that Americans today seem to be apathetic to the plight of the transgendered victim, who may or may not identify as gay or lesbian."

The remains found in Tampa are thought to be Ruby Bota, a transgendered woman who disappeared eleven years ago. The remains were found buried behind the property where Ruby lived with her husband Bob Bota.

School District Protects Gays

The Grossmont Union High School in San Diego District voted to amend its anti-discrimination policy to protect students and teachers who are gay or perceived to be gay.

Students boycotted classes, and parents called for the resignation of the school board's president after the 3-2 vote.

"This isn't about protecting kids because adequate protection already exists," said board member Gary Cass, who voted against the change. "This is about legitimizing homosexuality, bisexuality, etc., in an attempt to bring it to the curriculum."

But parent Pamela Highfill said it was obvious the inclusive language was necessary because gay students felt unprotected.

The words "actual or perceived sexual orientation" will be added to the policy which already includes protection based on race, religion, gender, and disability.

The change prompted some in the community to demand the recall of the school board president, Ted Crooks.

Pat Robertson Bank Deal Unraveling

The far-right political empire of televangelist Pat Robertson is facing a stunning blow as, under pressure from an international campaign by Equally Scotland, a Scottish gay rights organization, and Log Cabin Republicans, a U.S.-based gay organization, a lucrative multi-million dollar deal with the Bank of Scotland is reportedly unraveling as a result of his own words.

"We have been working with Equality Scotland for months to inform the public and the Bank of Scotland about who this man really is, but hand it to Pat Robertson to finish the jobs for us," said Kevin Ivers, Log Cabin Republicans.

Shortly after a multi-million dollar investment by the Bank in a Robertson bank venture was announced, Equality Scotland conducted an international media campaign to inform the Bank of Scotland that the venture would be financing Robertson's anti-gay political agenda. The effort spurred a boycott of the Bank of Scotland in Great Britain.

Bank officials stood by Robertson as millions of pounds and over 500 corporate and personal accounts were canceled. But word spread that the broadcast of Robertson's "700 Club" television program attacked the moral character of Scotland, with Robertson calling Scotland a "rather dark land", the deal began to unravel quickly.

The turmoil followed on the heels of the announcement that Robertson had eliminated the position of Christian Coalition Executive Director Randy Tate, and moved Tate out of the political organization's Chesapeake, Virginia's headquarters to the group's lobbying office in Washington in another series of shake-ups at the financially struggling organization.

The Lavender Rush of '99

was the year of the famous gold rush in California; future generations will look back on this year as the year of the Lavender Rush.

In 1894, the gold miners worked the veins of gold in California's soil and often reaped huge rewards. In 1999, the election of Gray Davis as Governor, and the retention of Democratic majorities in both houses of the State Legislature, have presented the LGBT community with a never better opportunity to make huge advances in civil rights and protection of our community's health.

Like the miners of 1894, the community is hard at work mining those opportunities. Also, like those miners, the LGBT community has devised new, better ways to mine the riches within reach of our community.

In the last few weeks, the following ground breaking bills were approved by one house of the state legislature and sent to the other house for its approval:

Passed by the Assembly:

A.B. 26 - Establishes a statewide domestic partner registry

A.B. 103 - Establishes an anonymous way of tracking the spread of HIV without names

A.B. 107 - Allows domestic partner health benefits for state and local government workers.

A.B. 142 - Requires health care plans to give prompt, quality care to HIV/AIDS patients.

A.B. 155 - Allows eligible people with AIDS to return to work without losing their Medi-Cal benefits.

A.B. 208 – Increases the penalty for murder committed because of the sexual orientation of the victim.

A.B. 217 - Requires health care plans and primary care providers being paid by Medi-Cal to make HIV/AIDS medications approved by the FDA available to their patients.

A.B. 518 - Allows local government in California to authorize clean needle exchange programs.

A.B. 1001 - Bans sexual orientation based discrimination in employment, housing, and accommodation.

Passed By The Senate:

S.B. 75 - Establishes a statewide domestic partner registry.

S.B. 77 - Improves worker's compensation rules in cases where workers die from AIDS as the result of a work related infection.

S.B. 1258 - Seeks federal permission to provide Medi-Cal benefits to people who are HIV positive but do not have AIDS.

S.B. 118 - Requires employers to grant family and medical leave for employees to care for their domestic partners.

Lambda letters has been one of the agencies fighting for the rights and health of the LGBT community and in devising innovative ways of advancing those causes. Hinman notes that Lambda Letters has gone into e-mail activism in a big way. In the first five months of this year, the Project delivered over 50,000 e-mail messages to the state legislature from Californians. Lamda Letters has also established a program to place supportive letters to the editor in newspaper around the state. Hinman notes that letters to the editor are the second thing most people read in the paper each day (The first thing is the comics).

Lambda letters is California's oldest statewide lobbying organization for GLBT community. The Project delivered over 120,000 letters and messages to elected officials last year.

Take Action Now... Plan Now

All over the United States men are coming together at stadium rallies hosted by the Promise Keepers. The leaders have deep ties to the Religious Right, and have a vision that does not include equality for women, gays and lesbians, or people of color. A network of organizations, including Equal Partners in Faith, National Organization for Women, Americans United for Separation of Church and State, Feminist Majority, Parents Families and Friends of Lesbians and Gays Force, are working together to help grassroots activists provide voices of concern when the Promise Keepers come to your town. The Promise Keepers are scheduled to be in Stockton on Sept. 10-11.

Get in touch with us if you would like to help plan an event or to get involved in an event already being organized. Information can be provided about the leaders of the Promise Keepers. Info: http://www.us.net/epf/HOMEPK.HTM, epf@lancnews.infi.net (Laura Montgomery Rutt, National Organizer, Equal Partners in Faith), or aucorbin@aol.com (Beth Corbin - 1-800-875-3707).

EQUAL PARTNERS IN FAITH is a multi-racial network of religious leaders and people of faith committed to equality and diversity. The diverse faith traditions and shared religious values lead to affirm and defend the equality of all people, regardless of religion, race, gender, or sexual orientation. They actively oppose the manipulation of religion to promote exclusion and inequality. The network is helping mainstream and progressive people of faith promote a more inclusive vision of religion and society. First Grants Available for Jewish Activism on GLBT Issues

The Shefa Fund (TSF), a public foundation based in Philadelphia, released guidelines for a new initiative to move the Jewish community beyond mere acceptance and inclusion of GLBT Jews to a stance of welcoming and celebration. The Pooled Fund for Jewish Community Activism on GLBT issues is now seeking proposals in its first year of grantmaking.

The Shefa fund anticipates granting at least $40,000 in 1999, with grants in the range of $5,000-$20,000, for projects to motivate the Jewish community along the continuum from tolerance to inclusion to celebration.

Leading the effort is an Advisory Board chaired by Avi Rose, TSF Board member and co-editor of Twice Blessed: On Being Lesbian, Gay and Jewish. More than 75 individuals and foundations have pooled their contributions so that Shefa Funds can make grants based on the Advisory Board's expertise and recommendations.

According to TSF President Jeffrey Dekro, "The point is that GLBT oppression is a mainstream Jewish issue. The expansion of rituals that we seek would expand the range of rituals for all Jews; the visibility that we seek would expand the range of ritual for all Jews in their communities; the anti-violence activism that we seek would increase the safety of all Jews. This is all about expanding possibilities and integrating identities."

To make the greatest impact on the Jewish community's responsiveness to GLBT youth, adults, and their families, TSF will fund projects in four categories:

- Sensitivity and anti-homophobia training for rabbis and other Jewish communal professionals, including development of inclusive liturgy;
- Jewish community-wide awareness and organizing programs;
- Jewish teen education and awareness;
- Support for Jewish GLBT children and parents.

For guidelines, grant application, or to contribute to the Pooled Fund, contact The Shefa Fund at: 805 E. Willow Grove Ave., Wyndmoor, PA 19038, (215) 247-9074, shefafnd@libertynet.org.

Gay Nominee Finally Gets Appointment

Defying Senate Republican leaders, President Clinton announced he was installing gay San Francisco philanthropist James Hormel in a temporary position as ambassador to Luxembourg. Clinton gave Hormel a "recent appointment", taking advantage of a provision in the Constitution that allows a president to bypass the regular confirmation process during congressional recess. Hormel, who will become the first and only gay U.S. ambassador, will be able to serve until the end of 2000.

Hormel was first nominated by Clinton in October 1997 and again this past January but Senate conservatives have continued to oppose the nomination, even though supporters have long claimed that Hormel has more than enough votes if the nomination could ever come to a vote. Hormel, 66, an heir to the Hormel Foods fortune and a former dean at the University of Chicago Law School, has been a member of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. Human Rights Commission in Geneva and had previously been confirmed by the Senate to serve on the U.S. delegation to the U.N. General Assembly session in 1996.

Conservatives senators forcefully opposed the ambassadorial nomination, complaining of Hormel's advocacy of gay-rights issues and his financial support for gay-rights causes. Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., refused to move the nomination, even though it had been approved in 1997 by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Latin Community Committed to Youth After Defeat of Bill

After joining several national and local organizations in an effort to win passage of Assembly Bill 222, which was defeated by a 40-38 vote in the State Assembly, LLEGO affirmed its solidarity with GLBT and Questioning Youth, and vowed to join efforts to further educate the greater Latina/o community against homophobia, discrimination, and violence against all GLBT persons.

The defeat of the bill was particularly bitter to LLEGO in part because several non-Latina/o groups of the religious right targeted Latina/o members of the State Assembly by exploiting Latina/o fundamentalist Christians. By mailing flyers in Spanish and placing ads in Spanish radio and print, accusing Democrats and moderates of forcing the 'gay lifestyle' upon educators and students, the Latina/o anti-gay religious groups were able to intimidate several assembly members to vote against the bill.

"By spending about $100,000 in a smear campaign against our community, these fundamentalists were able to secure the one vote that defeated the bill. With the unity of the GLBT community and efforts to educate others about homophobia, 40 were already in favor," said Martin Ornelas-Quintero, executive director of LLEGO, "and this happened with vastly smaller resources than the Christian Right, but a lot more honest discussion."

LLEGO had arranged to hold a Latina/o youth leadership summit to train youth leaders on equal rights and HIV/AIDS prevention activism prior to the vote on AB 222. "We are now facing the indifference of some people who think violence against queer men and women is a part of our culture," said Martina Toledo-Hermina, summit coordinator at LLEGO. "Bigotry is neither Latino culture nor Christian."

LLEGO is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the strength and well-being of the Latina/o GLBT community at the local, national, and international level through cultural, political, and community development resources. Info: www.llego.com

If you have a facility to offer for the meetings, call Steve at 456-8239.

Sweet Adeline's Forming Chorus in Sacramento

Sweet Adeline's International, barbershop harmony organization for women, is forming a new chorus in Sacramento. Women of all ages who enjoy singing are invited to attend meetings Thursday evenings at 7pm at the Bannon Creek School, 2775 Millcreek in the Natomas area.

"Musical knowledge isn't necessary to sing with this chorus," says organizer and musical director Mary Alice Myers. "Any woman of average singing ability, with or without vocal training, will find a part that fits her voice range."

The chorus in Sacramento is beginning regular rehearsals. The chorus will provide a community service, eventually offering its talent for entertainment at civic events, charitable functions, promoting harmony, and friendship among women.

Celebrating over 50 years of barbershop harmony, Sweet Adelines International has a membership of 30,000 women around the world. The organization is dedicated to educating its members in the art of singing four-part harmony, barbershop style, and has as its motto "Harmonize the World". Info: 484-6317

Valley Knights Motorcycle Club Rides Again

The Valley Knights Motorcycle Club invite everyone to their 23rd Annual club campout July 30-31, and August 1 at private lakeside campground 5200 ft high in the cool Sierras. Included are hiking, good food, skinny dipping, people and bike events. Info: 445-6540.

Canines Let Their Parents Run & Help Raise Funds!!

In spite of an overcast, drizzly week, the sunshine was abundant for Saturday's 6th Annual Doggy Dash. Over 1,200 entrants a 100% increase in partici-pation from 1998, translated into a boost in revenue, especially meaningful to the shelter animals this year.

The event was held at California State University Sacramento as a FUNdraiser for the Sacramento SPCA. Unlike the host of other area 5K run events, the Doggy Dash is unique inasmuch as competitors race alongside their favorite four-legged canine companions. Although one may expect the winner to be accompanied by a greyhound or at least a labrador retriever, some of this year's front runners were no bigger than your friendly feline!

The SPCA shelters more than 10,000 lost, surrendered, strayed, or abused animals at their Florin-Perkins Road facility annually. The organization enhances the community through humane education programs, spay and neuter clinics, and through the Love On Loan services provided to seniors. In 1999, the SPCA will break ground on a new shelter facility aimed at reaching their goal of 100% adoptions for the animals that will find their way to the SPCA.

The SPCA would like to thank all of those who participated in this year's event, especially the readership of MGW Newspaper. Your support makes a difference in the lives of thousands of deserving animals.

Writers Contest for the Library

Northern California writers are invited to submit unpublished manuscripts to the 13th annual Focus on Writers contest presented by Friends of the Sacramento Public Library. Entries must be postmarked on or before August 6.

Categories are short story, first chapter of a novel, poetry, non-fiction article, and children's story/picture book. Winners will be announced at the day-long writers' conference on Saturday, October 23, at the Central Library, 828 I Street. Info: 264-2880.

Arts Commission Offers Arts Grants to Local Organizations

A non-profit organizations in Sacramento County may qualify for arts grants through the Sacramento Metropolitan Arts Commission 2000 & 2001 Cultural Arts Awards Program. Cultural Arts Awards assist with partial support of general operating expense or arts projects. Awards are made through a competitive process to non-profit organizations providing arts programs in Sacramento County.

Organizations wishing to apply must 1)Demonstrate proof of non-profit status; and 2) Show a fiscal and programmatic track record of arts program in Sacramento County. Guidelines and Applications will be available July 2, and may be picked up at the Arts Commission office, 800 Tenth St., Suite 2, 8a.m. and 5p.m. A "letter of intent" for the first-time applicants is due July 16.

The application deadline for all organizations is Tuesday, August 31, 1999.

Beginning this year, the Cultural Arts Awards will be granted every other year and run on a two year cycle.

The Arts Commission will hold two free workshops on "How to Apply for the Cultural Arts Award," on Thursday, July 22, 6p.m., or 9a.m. on Saturday, July 24, at Coloma Community Center. Info: 264-5558.

The Sacramento Metropolitan Arts Commission is a public agency whose mission is to actively foster, develop, and advocate support for the arts in Sacramento County.

Eppie's Great Race Set For July

On July 17th, nearly 2,000 athletes will gather for the 26th running of Eppie's Great Race. While the event itself remains unchanged, there have been some changes in the support structure for the Race.

First, Eppie Johnson has sold his interest in Eppie's Restaurants. The transaction will have no impact on the Great Race. Eppie continues to be actively involved in the event, and Eppie's Restaurants will continue to honor meal coupons for those teams or ironpersons breaking the marks set by the Great Team and the Great Team Ironman and Ironwoman. The race will continue to be known as Eppie's Great Race.

The second change involves the race committee. Running an event the size of the Great Race requires tremendous dedication on the part of the organizing committee and volunteers. They have structured the committee to ensure an even better application of support resources. As part of the restructuring, the co-race directors with Will Kepmton continue the administrative oversight and Charlie Willard handling racecourse management.

The race pushes off at the American River Parkway in Rancho Cordova. The run is 5.82 miles, the cycle is 12.5 miles, and finally the paddle part is 6.35 miles down the American River.

To enter you need 3 people per team for each division; or individuals can enter the Ironperson divisions, and corporate or business teams can form. For information in the different divisions call:

Buffalo Chips Running Club Club Hotline: 481-3653 Mike Grassinger. Approximately 800 members with workouts on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and training runs on weekends.

Sacramento Southside Striders Wayne Finley, 391-8802. Based at Southside Park running facility, open from 11 AM to 2 PM, Monday through Friday. Dressing rooms and showers available. A nominal fee is charged.

Sacramento Wheelman John Fraser, 427-7326, with 300 members most activities include short weekend tours with occasional long tours.

Sacramento Bike Hikers President Al Mehaffey, 863-7278, and Sue Bennett with 400 members, major activities include short recreational tours.

Sacramento Area Bicycle Advocates Lea Brooks, 852-1167, with a volunteer organization representing 200 members and promoting the increasing use of bicycling as a viable and practical mode of transportation, with an emphasis on the importance of bicycle safety and education.

River City Paddlers Alan Clark, 366-8312, John Campbell, 369-0573. Kayak and canoe club of 75 members with clinics and races.

Volunteer Divers Chris Lay, 732-4500. Provides assistance to paddlers during the race.

Sacramento Amateur Communications Reserve Local radio club of 170 members. Provides emergency radio communication for race.

Mother Lode Region Ski Patrol Ski patrol group of 300 members. Provides EMT services to race participants.

Chico Freedom Fest Set For August

Sunday, August 29th is the date set for the Chico, California 1999 Freedom Fest Celebration with the theme "Prideful Past, Powerful Future" at the Chico Area Recreation District (CARD) Center, 545 Vallombrosa Avenue, Bidwell Park. Info: ProduceBoy2@hotmail.com, (530) 893-3336.

Announcement

Paula C. Bowden and Laura Schofield will celebrate their life and love together with a commitment ceremony in Sacramento on June 20th. The outdoor ceremony will be conducted by Reverend Nicole Burgess and Reverend Avery Shipp of the First United Ecclesiastic Lesbians, F.U.E.L., a new women's church in Sacramento. After the ceremony, a BBQ reception will follow.

Paula and Laura feel that a strong relationship is built on honesty, trust, communication, and humor. Of course, a few past lives with each other doesn't hurt either.

Illinois Court Reverses Gay Adoption Ruling

The Illinois appeals court offered apologies to two lesbian families whose attempts to secure second-parent adoptions for three small children had been blocked by the extraordinary actions and rogue rulings of a Cook County Judge. "This is a resounding rebuke of anti-gay bias in the courts, and a ringing affirmation of the rights and abilities of lesbian and gay parents," said Patricia M. Lounge, supervising attorney of Lambda's Midwest Regional Office in Chicago.

Physicians With AIDS to be Honored in San Francisco

"Honoring our Heroes" is this year's theme for the annual benefit of the International Association of Physicians in AIDS Care (IAPAC). The Chicago-based association of more than 6,000 physicians, in 34 countries will host a dinner September 27 in San Francisco, honoring physicians with HIV, those living with the disease and those lost to the virus.

Physicians living with HIV are invited to help the IAPAC planning committee to better understand the challenges faced by HIV-positive physicians and how to incorporate these challenges into the tribute. Friends, family members, and lovers of those who have been lost to the disease are asked to volunteer to help establish fellowships in global health care to honor those who are no longer able to give their gift of healing to others. Volunteers should contact Gordon Nary by email at gnary@iapac.org or at 312-795-4931.

King James Outed In New Book

In King James and Letters of Homoerotic Desire by University of Kansas professor, David Bergeron, King James, the English monarch responsible for the standardized bible in current use today, was outed. Using letters written by the regent to male members of his court, Bergeron proves his thesis that King James was interested in, if not active with, men. Not news in scholarly circles, the information is not expected to stir up controversy among religious authorities.

New Poll Highlights Connection Between Anti-Gay Attitudes in Schools

"These findings strongly suggest that countering anti-gay bias and racism in the classroom goes hand in hand with countering violence in schools. You can't do one without the other." - GLSEN Executive Director Kevin Jennings.

The Lesbian and Straight Education Network (GLSEN) said that a new Gallup Poll linking anti-gay and racist attitudes with student-on-student violence should send a clear mandate for school administrators to address these prejudices as they work to create comprehensive safe school plans. The poll, revealed that high school students who are aware of 'violence-prone' groups in their schools believe these groups present a particular threat to gay students. Fifty-eight percent affirmed that 'violence-prone' groups could be dangerous to gay students, with fifty percent reporting to have heard these groups espouse 'hatred of gays'. Fifty-one percent of the students also stated that 'violence-prone' groups could be dangerous to blacks, Hispanic, or other minority students.

Americans United Criticizes Senate Passage of School Prayer

Americans United for Separation of Church and State has criticized the U.S. Senate for passing a measure designed to promote worship and religious symbols in public schools where slayings occur.

The proposals was offered in the form of an amendment to a juvenile justice bill by Sen. Wayne Allard (R-Colo) and passed on an 85-13 vote.

The measure, cosponsored by Sens. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.) and Michael B. Enzi (R-Wyo.), states that the reading of scripture, prayers and religious music are permissible at memorial services held at public school following slayings and that memorials erected at schools in honor of slain persons may contain religious symbols.

"Even great human tragedy does not permit suspension of the Constitution," said Barry W. Lynn, executive director of Americans United. "The Senate has gone down the wrong road. In a pluralistic society, this proposal would divide students, not bringing them together."

Mormon Leader Contends Gays Violate Moral Standards

Gordon B. Hinckley, leader of the Mormon Church, says that he has "nothing but love" for the lesbian and gay population, and even though "a lot of wonderful fine people" are gay, the church doctrine requiring that they marry and have children in order to reach the highest tier of heaven is still correct. He believes there is ample evidence to support the idea that lesbians and gays can convert to heterosexuality and that the moral standards are the same for them as for heterosexuals. When these morals are violated, disciplinary action will be taken. "That's all there is to it, just that simple."

Did Denver Judge Recognize Lesbian "Marriage"?

In a case that looks as though a Denver court might have recognized the legitimacy of a lesbian relationship and treated the two women as marital partners, Denver District Court Judge Morris B. Hoffman ruled that a piece of property purchased with funds from the two women, but held in the name of only one of the parties, belonged to them equally and ordered the property sold, the proceeds divided equally and the one woman share the profits she had realized over the last six years.

Porn Classes Focus On Wrong Idea of Freedom

Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut students can take "Pornography: Writing of Prostitutes"; the reading list ran the gamut from the Marquis de Sade to Hustler Magazine.

Content included a scantily clad female student bound her wrists with rope and asked others to flog her with a rubber cat-ó-nine -tales, videotape of a male student's face as he masturbated. Hope Weissman, the professor who taught the course, was upfront; "I don't put any constraints."

But once the news was out, the school pulled back: "The course is under review," said Wesleyan's spokesperson.

The student newspaper, the Argus, reported earlier this month on a visit to the campus by Annie Sprinkle, the veteran x-rated movie star.

In a 21/2 hour performance entitled "The Pleasures, Profits, and Politics of Creative Sexual Expression," Sprinkle stripped for the students, performed her trademark bosom ballet and then showed a videotape that included excerpts from her movies and tips on making one's own porn movie.

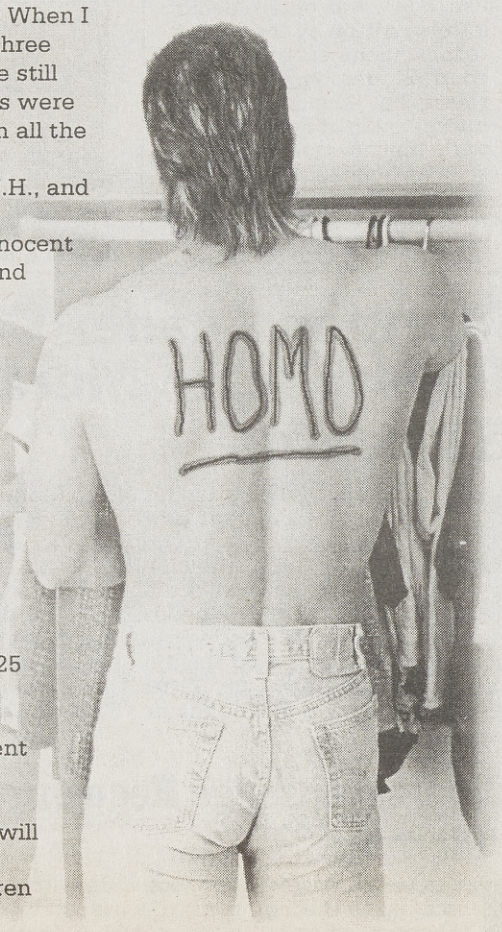
Antigay Slur Carved On Student

Two prep school students are charged with a hate crime for allegedly carving an antigay slur into another student's back because he liked to listen to British rock bad, Queen. Jonathan Shapiro, 18, and Mathew Rodgers, 20, allegedly used a pocket knife to cut "HOMO" into the back of 17-year-old student at the Northfield Mount Hermon School. The Gill Police Chief David Hastings described the wounds as "deep enough to draw blood. When I saw them, they were three days old and they were still very visible. The letters were 4-5 inches high and ran all the way across his back."



Shapiro, of Keene, N.H., and Rodgers, or Franklin, Tennessee, pleaded innocent to charges of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, assault with intent to maim and assault with intent to intimidate resulting body harm. The third charge made the incident a hate crime, which would require the suspects to undergo counseling and diversity training. A maximum sentence of 25 years in prison if convicted. Rogers had accepted an appointment to the Naval Academy. "Once we are able to verify the charges, we will have to reconsider the appointment," said Karen Myers, an academy spokeswoman.

Debt Counselors to Provide Resources for Gays

The non-profit Debt Counselors of America announced it has become the first national credits or debt-counseling agency to provide educational resources specifically designed to assist gay and lesbian consumers.

The organization has produced its "Gay and Lesbian Financial Series" to assist consumers with their unique financial and legal situations. In observances of Gay and Lesbian Pride Month, these publications will be available throughout the month of June for free at DCA's www.GetOutOfDebt.org website. Publications available:

DCA was also the first counseling agency to be on the Internet and also the first to provide a certified financial planner and a financial educator to help consumers get out of debt. According to DCA's Co-Founder Planner and a financial educator to help consumers get out of debt. According to DCA's Co-Founder and President, Steve Rhode, "The needs of consumers are constantly changing and we continue to evolve to meet those needs. We've already helped hundreds of thousands of gay and lesbians and our new publications will make assistance much more accessible to this community." Consumers can download these new publications throughout the month of June with no cost by visiting www.GetOutOfDebt.org

Debt Counselors of America is a national, non-profit organization. Founded in 1994, DCA has helped over two million consumers via its www.GetOutOfDebt.org website and toll free 800-680-3328.

Victory Fund Backs Ed Flanagan

Vermont Sate Auditor a Watchdog for Taxpayers, Champion for Working Families,

Ed Flanagan of Vermont is running to unseat Republican incumbent Sen. James Jeffords.

By prevailing in the 2000 elections, Flanagan would become the first openly gay U.S. Senator in history. He is currently the nation's first and only openly gay statewide elected official. Now serving in his fourth term as Vermont's state auditor, Flanagan has become known for his effectiveness at protecting health care and retirement security for Vermont's working families while standing up for taxpayers as a watchdog against government spending.

The FDA Is Trying To Prevent Gay Men From Having Children

At its Human Tissue Seminar, the FDA announced proposed regulations which would make it illegal for gay men to be sperm donors, block medical assistance for infertility and almost eliminate the possibility of having biological children.

The regulation, due to be finalized by the end of 1999, will do two things. First, gay men would be banned from being anonymous sperm donors. Under the regulations, heterosexual men may have multiple sexual partners and be accepted. However, gay men in a long-term mutually monogamous relationship would not. Secondly, it would force directed donors, men who wishes to father children with a woman they already know, to freeze their sperm, quarantine it for 6 months and be retested for HIV before their sperm is used for insemination. Given the fact that only 1 out of 6 men (16%) have sperm that survives the freezing process well enough to meet the World Health Organization's minimum standard of fertility, this second rule will effectively prevent 84% of gay men from the possibility of having children.

Ettore's: This Is A Really Fun Eatery!

by Randy Hartley
MGW/Staff

Ettore (ettere) Ravazzolo opened his European Bakery 14 years ago across from The Pavilions on Fair Oaks Boulevard. Starting with fresh baked breakfast pastries and cakes he expanded to include catering and 3 years ago opened an on site cafe that is one of the most unique eateries in town. I joined some close friends for lunch at Ettore's recently to discover together the delicious and unique foods of this cafe.

The cafe shares the bakery space. You immediately sense the beautifully presented baked goods and aromas when you walk in and take a number. Then when your number is called, you will see the beautifully prepared salads and specials of the day displayed in the glass case where your order is taken. You are given a numbered holder for the table you find and your food is delivered after it is prepared in the meticulously clean kitchen. The system seems a little awkward at first, but once you get into the movement of the place you will find it similar to a cafeteria style restaurant.

However, unlike most cafeteria style restaurants, Ettore's serves outstanding food in an atmosphere that has lots of windows and is open, bright, airy and friendly.

Not one of us works well in the afternoon after drinking wine, so we settled for an endless glass of good iced tea.

We ordered the Salad Sampler that consisted of three of the fresh salads, the grilled herbed chicken breast on a rosemary roll and the oven-roasted polenta with a red pepper cream sauce. Each dish was distinctive in flavors and excellently prepared.

The menu is not extensive but the offerings are absolutely superb. Salads include mixed field greens, pasta salad, roasted chicken salad and the salad sampler ranging from $2.50 - $6.95. Panini Italian Sandwiches include turkey on focaccia, grilled portabello mushroom on focaccia, grilled hamburger on a cheddar scallion bun, grilled herbed chicken breast on a rosemary roll and panini of the day ranging between $5.95 and $6.75. From the wood fired oven there is vegetarian pizzette, meat pizzette and the delicious oven roasted polenta with sauce of the day ranging from $6.50 to $6.75.

After 5 p.m. dinner entrees include rotisserie roasted half chicken, grilled halibut, grilled New York strip steak, wood oven roasted pork loin and a nightly pasta special ranging from $8.95 to $11.95. Wines of the month usually include a Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Sangiovese and Cabernet Sauvignon in the $18 to $26 range for a bottle.

The desserts are undoubtedly some of the very best in town. The many cakes, cheesecakes, tortes, ganache and Tiramisu just to name a few items are superb. People love to stop by in the morning and try the breakfast pastries like Danish, puff pastries, muffins, scones, croissants, cinnamon rolls or coffeecake with a good cup of Boulevard Coffee.

"...unlike most cafeteria style restaurants, Ettore's serves outstanding food in an atmosphere that has lots of windows and is open, bright, airy and friendly."

The noise level is high during lunch but is less noisy during dinner. The portions are just right. Ettore's is suitable for the single, couple, and family diners. The bakery is an outstanding choice for special occasions cakes including two of my favorites the St. Honore and Tiramisu. I always use Ettore's for wedding cakes and believe me they are not only delicious but they are prettier than the picture.

The catering staff produces the same outstanding food for events that range from small to large. Recently they served a spectacular sit down dinner for 750 people.

Our hats off to Ettore, who still works every day, Joe Thompson, General Manager, Charlie Keller, Executive Chef and the fine staff who make Ettore's one of the best dining experiences around!

Morgan Gwenwald named new Executive Director of In the Life Television Show

Morgan Gwenwald has been named the new Executive Director of In the Life, America's gay and lesbian television newsmagazine series.

In the past four years In the Life's budget, staff size, station carriage on PBS have all more than doubled, and has moved from late night obscurity to a highly respected series seen in over thirty-five states and Canada. In the Life, a not-for-profit, member-supported organization, has been hailed as one of the best newsmagazines on the air by numerous television critics and has received awards from the National Gay and Lesbian Journalists Association and the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation.

Gwenwald has been working in the LG movement for nearly two decades and has served as In the Life's Director of Operations for the past two years. Before that, she worked at the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation as Director of Special Projects, served as a coordinator of the Lesbian Herstory Archives, has been chronicling the movement with her photography, and has succeeded Benjamin Prayz who left his post after five years. Golden Rainbow's "Ribbon of Life" Performance At Luxor Will Be Biggest Show Ever

More than 270 performers from virtually every show in Las Vegas will come together on one stage, for one cause, on June 19 and 20 when Luxor Las Vegas hosts the 13th annual "Golden Rainbow — Ribbon of Life" benefit in the Luxor Theater.

This year's event titled "Time" will be Golden Rainbow's largest show ever. An extraordinary entertainment showcase, "Time" premieres on Saturday, June 19, 1pm, with an encore presentation Sunday, June 20, also at 1pm.

Golden Rainbow is one of the most successful charities in Las Vegas, providing housing and direct financial assistance to people living with HIV/AIDS in Southern Nevada. Through its annual "Ribbon of Life" entertainment extravaganza, Golden Rainbow has raised more than $1 million dollars while producing what has consistently been called "the best show of the year" in Las Vegas.

Gay Characters Included on Fall Schedule

The broadcast networks announce their fall television seasons for advertisers. NBC, which currently has the most lesbian and gay characters in primetime, rolled out their new lineup which includes the return of shows with lesbian or gay characters including The Profiler and Friends. Will & Grace will bring its brand of "Must See TV" back to Tuesday night. The network has canceled Homicide: Life on the Streets, primetime's only show with a bisexual character. ABC added two new gay characters to their network with the gay-inclusive comedy Oh, Grow Up and, with Kevin Williamson, the openly gay creator and producer of Dawson's Creek, will premiere a new drama with gay inclusion entitled Wasteland. The WB's teen drama Popular will include a gay student in its ensemble cast. Info: 323/658-6775.

"Making a Case for Community History" Opens at San Francisco Gay and Lesbian Film Festival

A groundbreaking exhibition on the history and culture of the Bay Area's diverse GLBT communities opens June 18, at 7pm at the Castro Theatre in San Francisco. "Making a Case" brings together an unprecedented coalition of grassroots and high culture: Organizers from eight Bay Area queer communities working together with the Gay and Lesbian Historical Society of Northern California (GLHS) and professionals from De Young Museum, SFMOMA and the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco.

"The exhibition enables the participating communities to present their own histories - the struggles, triumphs, and turning points that reflect their own identity and purpose," says Paul Gabriel, exhibit coordinator for GLHS. "This exhibit is the first step in giving their fascinating histories the place of honor they deserve in the American Society."

The exhibit consists of eight museum-quality cases curated by volunteers from grassroots organizations. Participants include members of Bay Area African-American, Latino/Latina and Asian/Pacific Islander communities; transgender/transsexual people; lesbian feminists; the leather/SM and bear communities; and the Imperial Court.

"Making a Case" will be open to the public free of charge at three San Francisco venues this summer; at the Castro Theater, June 21-25, from 12am to 5pm (and June 18-25 with admission to Gay and Lesbian Film Festival events); at the Pride Festival atCivic Center, June 27, and at the Galeria de las Raza, 24th and Bryant streets, for the last three weekends in July. Info: (415) 777-5455, or www.glhs.org.

In the Life's Gay Pride Special: "American as Apple Pie 1999" and The Judy Garland Connection on Channel 6

In the Life, America's gay and lesbian newsmagazine series, returns every June for Gay Pride. In an episode subtitled "American as Apple Pie," In the Life offers a program celebrating the civil rights strides made by the GLBT community. But this year, commemorating the 30th anniversary of Stonewall, IN THE LIFE also looks back to yesteryear. Stories featured this episode:

- The Judy Garland Connection - a gay icon 30 years after the Stonewall riots
- Project Yes - reaching out to gay youth in Miami
- Rev. Irene Monroe, an activist and preacher speaks out
- A Gay Couple and their Animal Sanctuary
- Paula Vogel - center stage with the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright
- Stonewall 25 Remembered - a look back at the historic 1994 New York event

IN THE LIFE examines the widely-held view that Judy Garland's death and funeral on the eve of the Stonewall riots helped spark the event seen as a defining moment in the modern gay rights movement. Footage will be shown from Garland's 1960's television series, The Judy Garland Show, and a roster of writers, Stonewall veterans, and singers including Lea DeLaria, will talk about Garland's influence on their careers, lives, and the '69 riots.

In the Life, produced by In the Life Media Inc., a nonprofit, member-supported organization is presented by WNET, channel 13 in New York City. A bi-monthly newsmagazine series that chronicles the history and contemporary experience of the GLBT community, and airs on over 120 public television stations nationwide, in Sacramento on Channel 6.

Jonathan Capehart (recent recipient of the 1999 Pulitzer Prize for distinguished editorial writing), Scott Hileman, and special guest correspondent Marga Gomez join host Katherine Linton. Info: Channel 6, KVIE, 929-5843.

Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Paula Vogel

Reverend Irene Monroe, one of America's most outspoken African American lesbians

The show will visit rural West Virginia to an animal sanctuary run by partners Dale Riffle and Jim Brewer, left.

Diversity Reigns at SF Queer Film Festival

by Stefan Grünwedel
MGW/Staff

Now is the time to see queer cinema in the City! The 23rd San Francisco International Lesbian and Gay Film Festival presents its most diverse program of queer media ever, consisting of 260 films and videos from 26 countries. The festival runs from June 17-27.

As always, the venerable Castro Theater hosts the festival opening of the fast-paced comedy Trick, a new feature film by Jim Fall that Variety called "the most appealing and most erotic gay date movie ever made."

The Castro Theater also closes the festival with Show Me Love, a new Swedish film by director and poet Lukas Moodysson that tells the tale of two high school girls in a small town who find love and each other despite the homophobia that surrounds them. Amazingly, this film was such a success in Sweden that it actually rivaled "Titanic" as that country's box office hit!

In between those two films are many innovative and expressive visions of queer lives, loves, struggles, and triumphs. More often than not, the filmmakers or stars of these films appear at these screenings to talk with audiences about the making of the films.

One such highlight is Aimee & Jaguar by Max Faberbock about the unbelievable but true story of two women, Lilly and Felice, who fall in love in Nazi Germany. What makes the story all the more compelling is that Lilly is a Nazi "super-mom" who wins an award by the government for producing four "racially pure" Aryan sons for the war effort, while Felice is an assimilationist Jew who works at a Nazi newspaper in order to pass on secret documents to the Jewish underground. (Lilly is now 85 and still living in Berlin.)

If American television ever needed further indictment of its inability to show queers as more than campy, de-sexed best friends, British television's Queer As Folk series is certainly it. This soap opera dares to be an honest chronicle of the lives and loves of three happy, sex-positive, out gay men living in Manchester, England. It shocked the critics but thrilled viewers across the United Kingdom. This is probably the only chance to see all eight episodes in a row.

Lesbians make a strong impact in this year's festival with such films such as the touching coming-of-age story Set Me Free by Canadian director Lea Pool; the boisterous French farce Why Not Me?, A bon-bon of lust and love served up by Stephanie Giusti; the entertaining romantic comedy Better Than Chocolate by Canadian director Anne Wheeler; the Norwegian made-for-TV (!) thriller Blessed Are

Razor Blade Smile

Those Who Thirst by Carl Jorgen Kionig, about a dyke police detective (who, incidentally, has her own TV series over there) and a blood-thirsty rapist—apparently not a tale for the squeamish; and the collection of videos Righteous Babes, which explores the intersection of feminism and popular music with interviews with such rock greats as Sinead

Better Than Chocolate

O'Connor, Chrissie Hynde, Skin, and Ani DiFranco.

The bisexual infiltration is also noticeable in this year's festival. Bi films include German director Hermine Huntgeburth's Trio about a father-daughter pickpocket duo who fall for the same man; Bi Boys and Bi Girls II, a collection of five shorts on bi themes; British director Jake West's Razor Blade Smile, a super-stylish, over-the-top vampire romp set in the swinging Gothic scene of 1990s London; and Peruvian director Francisco Lombardi's Don't Tell Anyone, a sexy and stylish coming-of-sexual-awakening tale about a confused young man who tries to end his confusion over his sexual preference.

Also impressive is the provocative (and seemingly more mature) array of films about gay men, including Rose Troche's Bedrooms and Hallways, a witty romantic comedy that takes a sophisticated look at the trials and tribulations of gay (and bi) relationships in the nineties; Ben Taylor's In the Flesh, an intimate portrait of the relationship between a hot young street hustler and handsome older man; Victor Salva's disturbing Rites of Passage, about violent passions involving a conflicted family and two escaped convicts; Nickolas Perry's Speedway Junky, a moving portrait of lost youths in Las Vegas struggling to make sense of their lives; and Victor Saca's blend of magic realism and hellish nightmare in There Is No Pain in Paradise, a twisted tale set in the seedy gay underbelly of modern-day Mexico City.

Besides the usual series of gay and lesbian short films and documentaries, the festival

Blessed Are Those Who Thirst

presents a special program of films, videos, and panel discussions called The Color of Sex: Race and Sexuality in Queer Film, which showcases and explores issues of race and sexuality among lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgendered people of color. Included in this series is the tenth anniversary screening of Marlon Riggs's

Bi Boys and Bi Girls II

Tongues Untied, the breakthrough documentary about the lives of black gay men.

The 23rd San Francisco International Lesbian and Gay Film Festival runs from June 17-27 at the Castro Theater (429 Castro Street) and Victoria Theater and Roxie Cinema (both on 16th Street near Mission). For more information on the festival and how to purchase tickets, call the 24-hour hotline at (415) 703-8663 or visit the festival Web site at www.frameline.org.

HOW MANY S'S IN HOLLYWOOD

In Bed With A Thief

by Gerald Seams
MGW Staff

FILM - A scene featuring Robert Wagner and Rob Lowe in bed together has been edited from the new hit film Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me. It has been said the deed was not based in homophobia but was deleted to help the movie get it's PG-13 rating. As a result of the work of the notorious Dr. Evil (Mike Meyers), the two actors play older and younger versions of the same character. The scene, which brought new meaning to the phrase, 'self love' is expected to be restored for the film's future release on DVD. ▼▼▼

Actress Alicia Witt

Don Roos, director of The Opposite of Sex is developing Bounce as his next project. The story follows a man who becomes an alcoholic after fate saves him from a disastrous plane crash. After giving up his seat to another man, desperate to return home to his wife, his sense of guilt takes him to the widow with whom he falls in love. Ben Affleck and off and on flame Gwyneth Paltrow have been in talks to star in the film. Two vets of The Opposite of Sex are reunited in the oddly titled film, Two Goldsteins on Acid. Johnny Galecki and Ivan Sergei are teamed once more, joining a cast that includes Harvey Fierstein (Torch Song Trilogy), Marlo Thomas and Alicia Witt (Cybil). ▼▼▼

Fine Line Features and BBC Films will team for the film version of Boy George's autobiography Take It Like A Man. The book takes the performer through his days with Culture Club, through his heroin addiction and subsequent comeback. Of course the name will have to be changed but not to protect the innocent. Rather to prevent copyright infringement with the film Take It Like A Man which was picked up for distribution by 20th Century Fox at this year's Sundance Film Festival. This is the real life story of Brandon Teena, a transgendered person who was raped and murdered in Nebraska in 1993, starring Beverly Hills 90210 alumni, Hillary Swank. ▼▼▼

The latest from director Rose Troche (Go Fish), Bedrooms & Hallways had it's UK release in April but still doesn't have a US distributor. The film features Kevin McKidd (Trainspotting) as a man attending a support group after countless failed relationships with women. Questioning his own desires, he admits his attraction to a male member of the group, who reciprocates, only to find new turmoil when reunited with his high school girlfriend. WOW! Where does one go to get therapy FROM therapy! Set in London, this romantic comedy stars Simon Callow (Four Weddings and a Funeral), Hugo Weaving (The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert) and Jennifer Ehle (Wilde). ▼▼▼

Porn stars are the focus of a couple of new films. In Wonderland, Michael Biehn (Terminator) plays immensely endowed adult film star John Holmes who was acquitted in the 1981 murder of four people in Laurel Canyon. Timothy Daly (The Object of My Affection) co-stars for director Nick Vallelonga (Belle Mafia). Salma Hayek (54) is a woman enamored with an adult film star in the intriguingly titled, The Velocity of Gary. Complications arise, when he is diagnosed as HIV positive. Also in the cast are Olive D'Abo (Kicking & Screaming), Vincent Donofrio (Boys Life 2) and Thomas Jane (Boogie Nights.) The film premiered at the 1998 Seattle International Film Festival. ▼▼▼

Former Gay Adult film star and MTV VJ Simon Rex will reprise the role he played on the WB series Felicity and is currently filming the teen thriller I Know What You Screamed Last Summer, a parody of films by Kevin Williamson and Wes Craven.

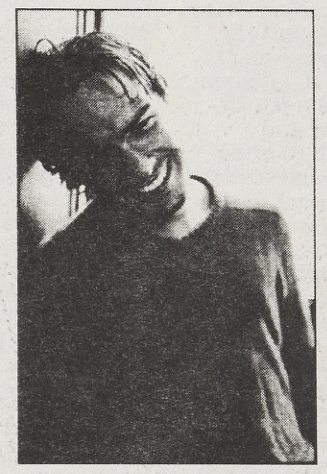
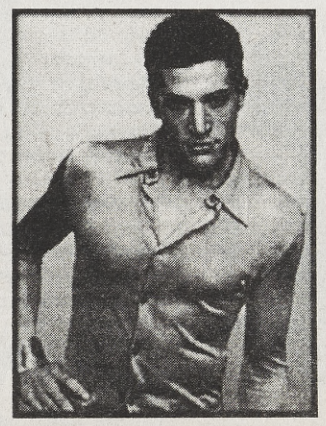
Director Barry Sonnenfeld's (Addams Family Values) film version of the campy series Wild Wild West hits theatres July 4th. Retaining the series' tongue-in-cheek attitude, the film stars Wil Smith as agent James T. West with Kevin Kline (In & Out) as his partner in crime-fighting, Artemus Gordon. Kenneth Branagh (Peter's Friends) plays the leg-less, wheel chair bound, Dr. Loveless and original series star Robert Conrad makes a cameo as President Ulysses S. Grant. Smith and Nicolas Cage are supposedly in the running for roles in the upcoming film I Now Pronounce You Joe and Benny, the story of two straight firemen who marry for insurance benefits. Cage would play a widower who saves his best friend's life, Smith, who vows to do anything to repay the debt. Cage pops the question to Smith so that his kids can qualify for insurance benefits. Don't count on it though. Smith is recording a new album and is only committed to a bio-film on Muhammed Ali next year. ▼▼▼



Heartthrob Johnny Galecki



In Bed with Rex

THEATRE - Many who caught British comedian Eddie Izzard's (Velvet Goldmine) recent special on HBO may be trying to remember where they've seen that face, and mascara. He was in last year's poorly received The Avengers and the glam-rock exploration known as Velvet Goldmine. For his next assignment, the cross-dressing comic has the lead in Lenny, a new play about the late US comedian Lenny Bruce. Based on a 1971 book by Julian Barry, the piece opens in July at the Queen's Theatre in London's West End. Elizabeth Berkeley (Showgirls) will portray Bruce's wife, Honey Harlowe. Wasn't that a Bond girl? ▼▼▼

SF's Theatre Rhinoceros presents Lauren Carley in the theatrical cabaret piece Venus Envy (love that title) June 17 - 27. The shows features comic and political songs from the 1920s, 30s and 40s which were banned by the Nazi's. Why? Well some were written by a Rabbi's son, Kurt Weill and other's by Bertolt Brecht. Carley will portray a number of characters of varying genders, sexual preferences and stereotype. ▼▼▼

TELEVISION - Matt Dillon has the directors chair for an episode of HBO's critically acclaimed series, OZ. Scheduled to air in July, Dillon's name will be added to a list of other past episode directors that includes Chazz Palminteri and Steve Buscemi. ▼▼▼ Mame, Jerry Herman's musical version of Auntie Mame is getting one more chance for redemption on film. Non-theatre goers only know it from the horrible 1974 film version starring Lucille Ball. ABC, Storyline Entertainment and Barbra Streisand are working together on a 3-hour TV version of the former Broadway hit. Streisand has not signed to star in the vehicle but will act as Executive Producer. ▼▼▼

Harry Hamlin (Making Love) teams with Natassja Kinski in a two-hour film called Quarantine for ABC next season. Hamlin plays the U.S. President who tries to save mankind from a deadly virus released by terrorists. ▼▼▼ Former Real World SF cast member Judd Winick is writing a memoir on former roommate and AIDS activist Pedro Zamora. The book, which features illustration by cartoonist Winick will be published by Henry Holt in the Fall of 2000. ▼▼▼ Liev Schreiber has come a long way since playing a transvestite in his first film, Mixed Nuts. In the HBO film RKO 281, Schreiber plays Orson Wells in this story of his conflict with William Randolph Hearst while making the film Citizen Kane. The cast includes Brenda Blethyn (Little Voice) as gossip goddess, Louella Parsons, Melanie Griffith as Marion Davies and James Cromwell (LA Confidential) as Hearst. ▼▼▼

OH MARY, ... PA-LEEEASE! Debra Messing (Will & Grace) goes from nice girl roommate to really really nice girl when she plays Mary Magdalene in the November CBS miniseries Jesus. Gary Oldman (Prick Up Your Ears) gets $1 million for his part as Pontius Pilate in the four-hour telefilm which began production in Morroco last May. Other cast members include Jeremy Sisto (Clueless) as Christ, , Armin Meuller-Stahl as Joseph and Jacqueline Bisset as Mary. Jacqueline Bisset? Hey, what about the one person whose entire life has been aimed at playing this part.... Madonna!

Camping With Your Favorite Friend

In the Dog Gone Newsletter, Monica Burns reported camping with your dog is one of life's most satisfying endeavors. The fresh air, physical activity and natural beauty seem to bring out the best in pup and owner alike. Before setting out, here are ten key tips:

1. Gauge your dog's "camping quotient." Most canines naturally take to the great outdoors, but some have lost their hunting instinct or athletic ability through physical disuse or "selective" breeding. Toy breeds - not to mention infirm and elderly dogs - might find camping difficult and stressful. Gauge your dog's fitness level with a veterinary check and a short day-hike at a local park.

2. Choose the right camping style. If you and your dog are rough-and-ready types, a tenting trip to a local, state or national campground—even a backpacking adventure is a dream come true. For the comforts and conveniences of a home-away-from-home, consider renting a motor home, trailer or other recreational vehicle.

3. Make sure the campground accepts dogs. Call ahead to insure your dog will be welcome, and ask for specifics about where your dog is allowed. Some campgrounds accept pets, but won't allow them on beaches, in lakes or on certain hiking trails. Woodall's Campground Directory (www.woodalls.com/whercamp/directry/directry.html) lists campgrounds in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico, along with basic pet policies. Kampgrounds of America (KOA), the largest network of franchised campgrounds in the U.S., accepts pets at virtually all its campgrounds. For a free KOA Directory, visit the web site at www.koaampgrounds.com, or write KOA, Executive Offices, Billings, MT 59114-0558.

4. Buy a big enough tent. Even if you're backpacking and space is at a premium, don't try to cram your dog and yourself into a one-person tent. Whether your tent is for two, four or more people, be sure to count your canine as one individual. To protect your dog from the hard tent floor, bring along a dog bed or mat, and cover the tent floor with a tarp to protect it from your dog's nails.

5. Carry your dog's usual food. A camping vacation - or any other trip - is no time to switch your dog's food. A new brand of food can cause stomachache, diarrhea or loose bowels. Carry your dog's normal food and snacks, and stick closely to regular mealtimes.

6. Consider bringing your dog's water. Some dogs are sensitive to changes in drinking water, so many vets suggest you bring water from home. You'll need about twice as much water when camping since your dog will be more active than at home. If you're backpacking in a wilderness area and cannot carry enough water, bring a water filter or a supply of iodine tablets to purify water. Don't let your dog drink from a stream or lake, which can contain harmful organisms.

7. Pack your dog's leash. "Leash laws" at private campgrounds can vary, but most public campgrounds require your dog to be leashed at all times. Sometimes, an exact leash length, such as 6' , is stipulated. Other campgrounds simply require your dog to be leashed in certain public areas or on specific hiking trails. Consider bringing two leashes (one 6', the other longer) and a tie-out stake (if our dog must be leashed at your campsite). Above all, be sure your dog's ID tags are securely fastened to the collar or harness.

8. Bring along doggie hiking gear. For long walks and hikes, a doggie canteen is a must. (It can also do double duty as your dog's campsite water and food dish.) Your dog also can use a dog knapsack - two bags slung across its back like a pair of saddlebags - to carry snacks and other gear. If you're trekking over rough terrain, or your pup has sensitive paws, consider dog boots. Guard against sudden drops in temperature with a dog coat or sweater.

9. Carry doggie water gear. Your dog should wear a doggie life preserver when boating or canoeing. Most dogs are natural swimmers, but some have drowned after jumping from a boat, attempting to swim to shore and suffering cramps or fatigue.

10. Always carry a first-aid kit. In the book *Ruffing It: The Complete Guide to Camping With Dogs (*Alpine Publications), authors Mardi Richmond and Melanee L. Barash suggest such items as antibiotic ointment (neosporin or bacitracin), cortisone cream, bag balm, hydrogen peroxide, styptic powder and a snakebite kit as well as a cold pack, ace bandage, gauze, tape, tweezers, small scissors and a thermometer. Many campgrounds are a short drive from a vet, but informed dog owners, especially those venturing deep into the wilderness, should get the ASPCA-approved video "Pet Emergency First Aid for Dogs," with information on handling choking, poisoning, snake bites, hypothermia and other injuries ($19.95 + $4.95 s/h, Apogee Communications Group, 800/210-5700).

What Is a Dog Park?

Dog parks provide recreational and social opportunities for dogs as well as people. Most parks and their facilities are designed with only people in mind. At these parks, many people's best friends are unable to participate in activities because they are forced to remain on leash while they watch the fun. In a dog park, dogs and their owners are welcome and well-liked, and they share a common interest. Both canines and humans easily form friendships. Veteran as well as novice dog owners can find guidance, gain confidence, and share information while their dogs build good social skills in a positive environment. Encouraging responsible pet ownership is the number one way dog parks are proving to be assets to their communities.

What Is SCOOP?

SCOOP, Sacramento Canine Owners for Off-Leash Parks, is a group of local dog owners who have come together out of common interest in socializing, exercising and enjoying their canine companions. They began as a grass-roots effort looking for a place to legally and safely meet with their dogs, promote and educate responsible dog ownership, and the primary focus is to establish off-leash dog parks within the city and county of Sacramento.

A Dog's Desire

Imagine your dog's fondest dream: a place where she/he could play off-leash but under her/his owner's voice control. A place where she/he could meet her/his doggie pals, catch balls, fetch frisbees, play tug-o-war, roll in the grass, or demand affection from people. Imagine this place as a clean, safe fenced space where owners pick up after their dogs, and water is always plentiful. This grassy area dotted with trees is designated specifically for dogs and their human companions.

This is the dream

All of the above, plus several parks in the Sacramento area with benches, shade trees, walking paths and water fountains.

Your help is needed to effect this vision!!

Successful Dog Park Guidelines

- Dogs owners must carry a leash.
- Dogs must be under voice control and in sight of owners.
- Any dog exhibiting aggressive behavior must be leashed immediately.
- Owners must clean up after their dogs.
- All dogs must be currently and visibly licensed, over four months old, and have current vaccinations.

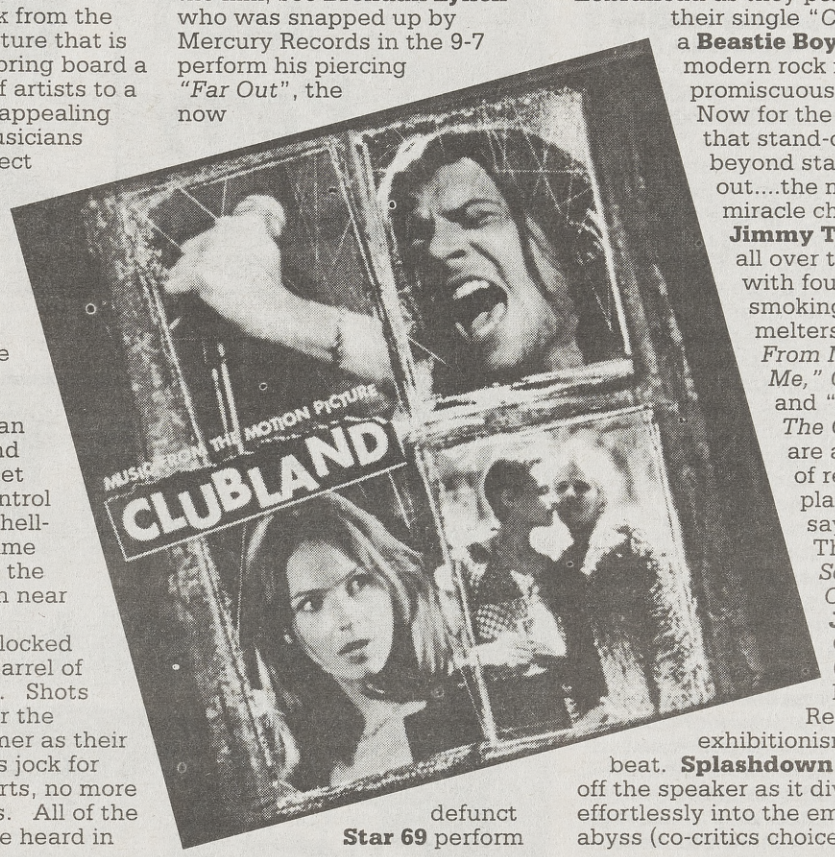
SOUND BYTES

Tight!!

by Charles Turner
MGW Staff

Clubland, Various Artists, Java/Capital Records

Clubland is the soundtrack from the motion picture that is going to spring board a montage of artists to a national ear appealing level, the young musicians collected are a perfect fit for this hip gritty film. None of the artists heard on the Clubland soundtrack are big names (that's sure to change) , so none of the tracks are overproduced underachievers, I can honestly recommend 17 of 17 for loop....set repeat on cruise control and the volume on hell-a- LOUD. By the time the dust clears and the smoke settles damn near every cut on the soundtrack will be locked and loaded in the barrel of the big boys' guns . Shots will ring out all over the airwaves this summer as their newly signed labels jock for position on the charts, no more indie for these folks. All of the songs on the CD are heard in the film, see Brendan Lynch who was snapped up by Mercury Records in the 9-7 perform his piercing "Far Out", the now defunct Star 69 perform an electro charged tune called "Burning Down The House" (it's too bad....ooh so sad, cause the song is tight), check out the euro from RCA, Radford makes the wheels of the steel guitar go round-n-round on "Closer To Myself", and also see the silver screen showcase the talents of Zebrahead as they perform their single "Check" it's a Beastie Boys meet modern rock for promiscuous sex. Now for the tunes that stand-out beyond stand-out....the movies miracle child Jimmy Tuckett is all over this CD with four smoking wax melters "Away From Me", "Not Me," Gemini," and "Living The Oblivion" are all worthy of repeat play...need I say more. The "Bi-Sexual Chick" by John Oszajca (inked by Interscope Records) is exhibitionism with beat. Splashdown gets a 9.9 off the speaker as it dives effortlessly into the emotional abyss (co-critics choice....look for their album Blueshift on the Java label). Vitreous Humor shares the other half of the critics choice with their grungy hit "Why Are You So Mean to Me?" off the 1998 Posthumous album (unfortunately this band is now also defunct). The woody song or Monica where's my cigar aka "Here We Go" by Frisbie is delightfully politically incorrect putting the lead in any pencil. Flood's sonic rock races along the edge with their single "Watch Her Walk Out" (look for the debut album on Interscope Records). I suggest you, the consumer, take this opportunity to catch all these different labels in one net. Clubland has all the trappings of dedication and hard work, a lyrical mix and musical match that should be enjoyed from beginning to end. Highly recommended....to hell with that, just go see the movie and just go buy the sound track and that's all I've got to say about that.



Urban Tech

by Charles Turner
MGW Staff

Frontside, Wax Trax! Records

Techno is alive and well, it lives in the form of unrelenting beats from the underground, but this isn't a homegrown sound, it's exported from Aussie land by way of Germany influence. This futuristic funk I'm calling TVT dance is a light show of sound that produces sweat as a by-product. The producers of this high caliber music are known as Frontside, and their debut album (of the same name) are sure to blow some holes in DJ grills as the dance floor spins at the speed of meth. Frontside's a household name down under, and with the proper exposure on this side of the marble its possibilities are as endless as it is continuous loops. The energy generated by "L.B.P." is addictive and relentless in the delivery. Climax in a can is "Beautiful Drugs", it works on the senses that control the pleasure zone with a penetrating rhythm that cums up and attacks from behind, satisfying the hunger mid-tempo style (worthy of many repeats cause you can never be to satisfied or drugged....critics choice).

The German techno influence steps up as each drum beat of "Evulva" and "Evol" storm-troop the speakers laying repetitive assault on your ears as you search for the techno truth thru dance. "Kate Moss is not too Thin" is Craftwork with an attitude (remember Craftwork ? Those mothers were the kings of techno). The Frontside track that comes the closest to the heartbeat of cyborg love is "Dammerung", boy finds techno....boy loops techno....boy falls in love with techno....boy plays techno (as boys often do)....boy loses techno, but finds religion. "Mind Distortion" commands your ass to shake until the music stops playing inside your head. The last track "Down in my Mind" is a sharp techno dance song that has the musical savvy to keep you listening and pushing the repeat all button on your disc player. Front-side is now available for rotation and sampling at a record store near you....if your down with techno then this band from down under is the tip, a compliment to any DJ stable cause these guys put in work.

HIV HOTLINE

On the HIV front...

By Sonya Cox

AIDS/HIV Editor

Condom notes...

Condom failure among men who have sex with men is linked to infrequent condom and lubricant use, as well as amphetamine and heavy alcohol consumption, according to a recent study of nearly 2,600 HIV-negative men. Nearly 17 percent of those in the test study reported condom failure (that is, a condom failure rate of 2.1 times per 100 uses). The study found that people who used condoms frequently, were employed, used lubricants, and had private medical insurance were less likely to experience condom failure.

A separate report issued by the Johns Hopkins School of Public asserts that -- in order to successful stop the spread of sexually transmitted diseases (STDs), including HIV -- condom use would have to rise from the current 9 billion condoms a year to 24 billion. With 333 million people newly infected with STDs each year, condom use may be one of the most effective methods of prevention. The scientists recommend making condoms more accessible, lowering their cost, and advertising them more in order to encourage their use.

"In AIDS Cities, Education Increases Condom Use, Cuts Sexual Activity"

A Centers for Disease Control study says education efforts in eight major cities have boosted condom use and decreased sexual activity among high school students. The CDC dispensed surveys to over 40,000 public school students, grades 9-12, in 1992, 1993, 1995, and 1997. Over the 6-year period, all eight cities showed declines in the number of students who had ever had intercourse, and four cities saw significant declines in the percentage of students who had four or more sexual partners. Nearly all areas saw significant boosts in condom use, with the totals ranging from a 25 percent increase in one location, to a more than 50 percent increase in another.

Faulty reporting in Japan makes numbers leap...

Japan's Health and Welfare Ministry recorded 38 new AIDS cases and 72 new cases of HIV in March, bringing the total of reported cases in Japan to 5,856. Over half of the new HIV cases were caused by same sex contact. The report indicates that 36 of the 38 new AIDS cases had never been reported as HIV infections. Investigators attribute the failure to detect such HIV cases that have progressed to AIDS to lack of knowledge about the disease and faulty reporting by medical institutions.

Warning issued on drug interactions...

Protease inhibitors can significantly increase the levels of Viagra (sildenafil), a drug used to treat male erectile dysfunction, according to recent studies. Saquinavir (Fortovase) increased the sildenafil levels in the blood by 210 percent, and the time to the maximum amount in the blood was delayed by about 3 hours. The study concluded that people taking these two drugs should start off with 25 mg of the Viagra drug, not the standard higher dosage. Protease drug Ritonavir (Norvir) increased sildenafil levels 11-fold, and peak time was also delayed by about 3 hours. People on Ritonavir and considering taking sildenafil should not exceed a dosage of 25 mg of sildenafil within any 48-hour time period, and may have to take the Viagra within 3 hours of sexual activity. Rescriptor (Delavirdine, an NNRTI) also increased sildenafil levels, and also came with the study conclusion that people should take 25 mg. However, anti-retroviral Sustiva (Efavirnz) and Viramune (Nevirapine, an NNRTI) mix in the opposite way — they reduce sildenavil levels, so with these two drugs a higher dosage of Viagra may be required to treat erectile dysfunction.

Yet another accompanying warning is that Viagra should not be used by people who use organic nitrates in any form, including poppers. In this combination, Viagra can lower the blood pressure to a potentially fatal level.

Men living with HIV are encouraged by the study coordinators to eliminate all other possible causes of sexual problems (nutritional deficiencies, hormone imbalances, sleep loss, drug side effects, etc.) before taking Viagra or testosterone injections because, once testosterone injections are started, the body stops making its own testosterone. After stopping injection therapy, it can takes months for the body's natural hormone production to re-normalize, and in the meantime people must endure the effects of the low testosterone levels (including unwanted weight loss, depression, etc.). It's therefore easy to become chemically dependent on testosterone or Viagra, drugs that come with their own set of problems. So make sure all other possible causes of problems are eliminated before starting these drugs, and that less invasive and less toxic interventions have been tried first.

Sustiva proving effective alternative to protease drugs...

Studies by four Canadian AIDS specialists have shown that DuPont's Sustiva (Efavirenz) used in combination therapy is effective, flexible, an d more cost-effective than a treatment plan containing a protease inhibitor. One study followed 18 people who received Sustiva as a replacement for a protease inhibitor (PI) in their combination regimen. All had a viral load of less than 400 copies for up to 28 months prior to switching, and were selected for the test because of PI side effects that included redistribution of body fat, gastro-intestinal problems, nausea, separation of skin from nails, and other adverse effects to the PI. In 17 of the 18 volunteers, the viral load remained below 400 after seven months of treatment, and 9 of them saw resolution of many of the side effects experienced with the PI. In another study, 22 people who had failed their PI were treated with a "salvage therapy" of Sustiva and alacavir (a nucleoside analog previously referred to as 1592), both with and without other anti-retrovirals. After seven months, 18 of the 22 people achieved viral load reduction, 12 achieving below 400 copies. Two failed to respond and one had a partial response. Five discontinued therapy due to side effects (that include insomnia, impaired concentration, dizziness, and abnormal dreaming) that were experienced to some degree in about half the volunteers. The drug also appears to be active in cerebro-spinal fluid, a sanctuary for the virus that makes some treatment options ineffective. Sustiva, say the researchers, is an important addition to HIV therapy regimens, and has received expedited approval, in combination with other anti-retroviral agents, in both Canada and the U.S.

(2) Protease group meets at SAF every Thursday. Call Daniel Hoeffer at 452-4224 for info. (3) Numerous bereavement groups are available through UC Med Center Hospice. Call 557-5882 for Bereavement Network list. (4) Mothers Support Group, for those with a child living with AIDS or lost to AIDS. Call Alva Kennedy at 791-5719 for info. Remember, even if you yourself don't happen to be needing support for a crisis currently in your life, others may be able to benefit from your experience or friendship.

Court supports discriminatory limits...

A federal appeals panel in Chicago ruled last week that insurance companies can limit HIV-related health care coverage to a fraction of the $1 million cap on other illnesses. The panel ruled that federal law that bars discrimination against people with disabilities does not apply to insurance companies. The suit was brought against Mutual of Omaha on behalf of two men — one man's policy capped his lifetime benefits for HIV conditions at $100,000 and the other man's capped such benefits at only $25,000. The AIDS Legal Council of Chicago says the decision "legalizes irrational discrimination by health insurers."

Monia Lisa Perry Memorial

Mourners gathered Friday evening at the Capitol to honor the memory of Monia Lisa Perry, a tireless advocate against AIDS. Ms. Perry died as a result of an accidental fire in her home.

Capital AIDS activist mourned after death in apartment fire

By Cynthia Hubert
The Staff Writer

As news got the best of Monia Lisa Perry again and again, she fought off the despair and loneliness and physical devastation of the disease and bounced back to educate others about how to prevent it and live well in spite of it.

One of Sacramento's earliest and most visible AIDS activists, Perry died Monday, lost not to complications from the disease that turned her house a cancer into a disaster.

Perry, 46, died of carbonate burns suffered in an apparently accidental fire at her home, officials said.

"We are all shocked," said Kathy Hagstrom, a nurse who knew Perry for years through the Sacramento AIDS Foundation. "But somehow I think she would have preferred it this way. She was still a whole person. She was still in control and confident of her independence. She had not succumbed to this disease."

Perry had lived with AIDS, which she contracted

Please see PERRY, page A-11

Monia Perry, who had lived with AIDS for nearly 15 years, told her story to wholesome weight loss...

"Monia felt she had a reason to be here on Earth. She believed that God kept her here even though she was suffering so she could get the message across."

Is It Depresion Or Just A Bad Day?

by Linda Tell, RN, MFT
MGW Staff

We've all had them at one time or another—one of those days you just don't want to go to work or school, or even get dressed. Maybe just pulling the covers over your head and staying in bed is all you have the motivation to do. What if this feeling persists? What if one day like this leads to another and another?

It is common to experience periodic lapses of motivation, or sadness in everyday life. Usually these feelings are short in duration; a few hours or days. It is painful, but you are able to continue functioning. Grief is a normal response to a major loss. It hurts tremendously. It is common to take some time out from routine activities to feel the sadness and move through cultural or religious rituals to help us deal with the grief. During a grief reaction, however, you can maintain your self-esteem.

Clinical depression is a pathological mood disturbance. Nothing seems to help or heal it. Self-esteem is always compromised. There is no way you can feel good about yourself. No amount of reassurance can make a difference. Your mood can be irritable and you may have a low frustration tolerance. Thinking is negative. There is a loss of vitality, sleep disturbances, appetite and weight changes, loss of sex drive and fatigue or nervous energy.

Forty percent of people with depression do not feel sad! It is now known that Clinical Depression is a metabolic disorder. It has been shown in brain scans that 80% of people with Depression have a significant change in brain function. There is a loss of cognitive ability to concentrate and pay attention. There is also a decrease in self-generated motivation. In very severely depressed patients, stress hormones are responsible for damaging the brain, decreasing memory and emotional control.

Left untreated, this can cause permanent brain damage. These effects are reversible with quick treatment.

Know the signs and symptoms of Clinical Depression.

-Persistent sad, anxious or "empty" mood.
-Sleeping too little or too much.
-Changes in weight or appetite.
-Loss of pleasure or interest in activities.
-Feeling restless or irritable.
-Persistent physical symptoms that don't respond to treatment.
-Difficulty concentrating, remembering, or making decisions.
-Fatigue or loss of energy.
-Feeling guilty, hopeless or worthless.
-Thoughts of suicide or death.

Depression is a treatable, medical illness. See your doctor or a mental health professional if you have five or more of the symptoms listed.

Often times friends or relatives cannot be helpful. They may become tired of hearing negative, pessimistic talk. Sometimes they offer unhelpful platitudes and it becomes more difficult to talk honestly with them. This is a time to consider seeing a psychotherapist, a trained professional who understands the nature of depression, and can guide you to getting appropriate treatment.

Linda Tell, RN, MFT # C279215,MFC2588 is a Registered Nurse and Marriage and Family Therapist. She has specialized training in couples relationship therapy, Body-Mind-Spirit Medicine and Guided Imagery.

How to Find Help Through Psychotherapy

Linda Tell, RN,MFT

Millions of Americans have found relief from depression and other emotional difficulties through psychotherapy. Psychotherapy is a partnership between an individual or couple and a licensed, trained professional who is able to help people understand their feelings and assist them with changing their behavior. According to the National Institute of Mental Health, one-third of adults in the United States experience an emotional or substance abuse problem. Nearly 25 percent of the adult population suffers at some point from depression or anxiety.

People often consider psychotherapy, also known as therapy, for the following reasons:

-They feel an overwhelming and prolonged sense of sadness and helplessness, and they lack hope in their lives.
-Their emotional difficulties make it hard for them to function day to day. They may have difficulty concentrating on assignments and job performance suffers as a result.
-Their actions are harmful to themselves or others. For instance, they drink too much alcohol and become irritable and overly aggressive. Or, they may be in relationship with someone who behaves this way.
-They are troubled by emotional difficulties facing family members or close friends.
-Their primary relationship is conflict- laden or emotionally unfulfilling.

Research suggests that therapy effectively decreases patients' depression, anxiety and related symptoms, such as pain and fatigue. It can have a positive effect on the immune system. Emotional and physical health are closely linked and therapy can improve your overall health. One major study showed that 50 percent of patients noticeable improved after eight therapy sessions; while 75 percent of individuals in therapy improved by the end of six months.

How Do I Find A Qualified Therapist?

It is important to find a therapist with whom you feel comfortable. Finding a good match may take a few attempts.

The First Step:

-Ask a trusted family member, friend or health professional for a referral.
-Contact the Employee Assistance Program (EAP) at your place of employment. The EAP counselor will screen you and make a referral.
-Contact the Department of Mental Health and get a directory of local therapists, by specialty.

The Second Step:

Prepare questions to ask the therapist during a preliminary telephone call. Some frequently asked questions are:
-What type of license does the therapist have?
-How much experience with the issues you want to discuss?
-What is the fee for a session?
-Do they participate in your insurance plan?
-Where is their office? What hours are they available?
-What is their approach to psychotherapy?
-Have they had any specialized training?

The Third Step:

Make the preliminary telephone call. Ask the therapist if they can spend a 10-20 minutes now on the telephone to answer all your questions. If not, ask them to suggest a better time.

As you interview the therapist, listen carefully. Trust your intuition. Do you feel comfortable speaking with them on the telephone? Do they seem warm, patient, clearly understandable?

The therapist ought to be able to speak to you with respect, conveying encouragement and hopefulness about your situation. During the first session, the therapist should review the limits of confidentiality, go over financial arrangements and determine your goals for therapy. Use the first one or two sessions to decide if there is a good feeling between you. You and your therapist both have responsibilities in establishing and maintaining a good working relationship. Be clear with your therapist about your expectations and share any concerns that may arise. Psychotherapy works best when you attend all scheduled sessions and give some forethought to what you want to discuss during each one. Patients often experience a wide range of emotions during psychotherapy. Let your therapist know what you are feeling. This can actually be a positive sign that indicating you are exploring thoughts and behaviors. Periodically review your progress with the therapist. Success in reaching your primary goals should be a major factor in deciding when therapy should end.

Virginia Judges Uphold Sodomy Felony Law

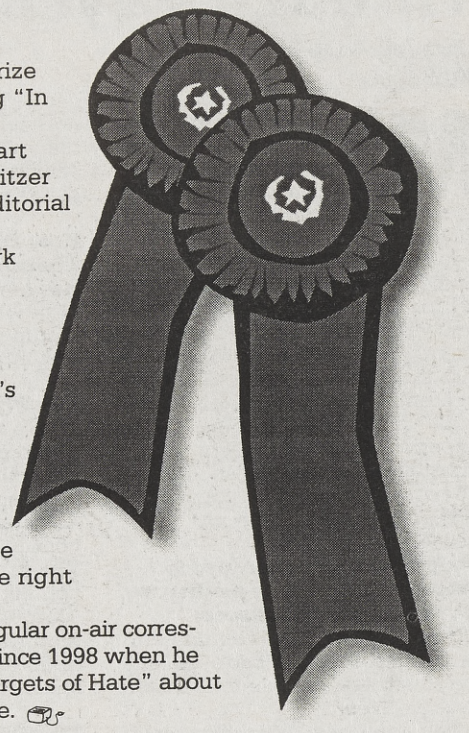
In the case of eighteen men charged with seeking gay sex in a city park, two Roanake judges ruled that a Virginia state law making consensual oral sex a felony is not an invasion of privacy.

Defense attorneys had argued that the law was unconstitutional on several grounds including the fundamental right to privacy granted by both state and federal constitutions. Judge Richard Pattisall countered, stating that the proposed sex acts were not solicited to take place in private, therefore there could be no expectation of privacy. As a result of the rulings, eighteen separate trials will take place over the better part of the summer, making this a protracted battle over the constitutionality of Virginia's sodomy law.

Protections Won At Two Universities

Officials at both Emporia State University in Emporia, Kansas, and Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas have banned discrimination based on sexual discrimination.

Gay Man Is A Pulitzer Winner



Jonathan Capehart Receives Pulitzer Prize for Editorial Writing "In the Life"

Jonathan Capehart received a 1999 Pulitzer Prize for distinguished editorial writing in an effective campaign in the New York Daily News to rescue Harlem's Apollo Theatre from financial mismanagement that threatened the landmark's survival. The award is given for "clearness of style, moral purpose, sound reasoning, and power to influence public opinion in what the writer conceives to be the right directions."

Capehart has been a regular on-air correspondent for "In the Life" since 1998 when he reported a story called "Targets of Hate" about the rise in anti-gay violence.

Canadian Supreme Court Rules In Favor of Spousal Rights

The Canadian Supreme Court handed down what many legal experts are hailing as Canada's most significant judicial ruling indecades. The Court found an Ontario law, which defined the term "spouse" to apply only to heterosexual couples, ans unconstitutional. As a result of this decision, Ontario must extend the definition of spouse to include same-sex partners. Many have speculated that while this decision stops short of sanctioning same-sex marriage, it will force the government to grant benefits; income tax savings, equality under the criminal code, and ultimately full recognition of gay and lesbian marriages.

Dentist Loses Appeal in HIV Case

The Supreme Court rejected the appeal of a Maine dentist successfully sued after he refused to treat in his office a woman infected with HIV. The justices turned away Randon Bragdon's contention that filling a cavity in Sidney Abbott's tooth at his office would have posed a "direct threat" to his health and safety.

Governor George W. Bush Credited With Killing Texas Hate Crimes Bill

The Texas State Senate tabled the James Byrd Jr. Bill, #938, legislation which would increase penalties for those convicted of crimes against a person because of gender, race, sexual orientation, etc. Evidently unwilling to alienate the Religious Right, presidential aspirant, Governor Bush is credited with the bill's failure to pass. Hoping to generate more awareness, a press conference will be held in Jasper Wyoming at the home of James Byrd's family. An African-American man, Byrd was dragged to death in east Texas last year. New Lesbian/Gay Talk Show Airs On the Internet

A new interactive lesbian/gay talk show recently debuted on the internet. Broadcast nationally from 1-3am EST on TalkSpot.com's Channel Z, "Out in the Open" is hosted by Kimmie and Pam, a couple who originally met in a lesbian chatroom. In addition to providing a gathering place and forum for LGBT people and issues, Kimmie and Pam will be webcasting their commitment ceremony later in 1999 as a show of support for lesbian and gay weddings. The real-time audio program combined with a live chatroom is a first for the community and will hopefully galvanize the Internet's lesbian and gay community, once again making the personal political. Info: http:// www.talkspot.com.

Students Hold Rally at Commencement

Students and employees rallied outside of the University of Pittsburgh's commencement exercises in response to the school's continuing legal challenge to Pittsburgh's anti-discrimination statue which covers sexual orientation. The dispute came out of a law suit filed by former employee, Deborah Henson, who contends the University violated the statute when it did not offer her same-sex partner the same benefits it offers to married employees' spouses. The school is claiming that the law is invalid as there is no similar law at the state level. If the University wins, legal protection for lesbian, gays, and bisexuals would cease in Pittsburgh and would be seriously challenged in other Pennsylvania cities. Accomplice Found Guilty In Shepard Murder; Defendants Plead Not Guilty In the Fatal Beating of Billy Jack Gaither

As the Hate Crimes Prevention Act (HCPA) continues to be debated before the Senate, two recent trials are worth noting. Following the April 5 sentencing of Russell Henderson for the kidnaping and murder of Matthew Shepard, Chasity Vera Pasley, Henderson's girlfriend, was sentenced to up to two years in prison as an accessory after-the-fact to first-degree murder. Pasley is one of two women accused of helping McKinney and Henderson dispose of Henderson's bloodied clothes. In Sylacauga, Alabama, Charles Monroe Butler Jr. and Steven Eric Mullins, pleaded not guilty for the fatal beating of Billy Jack Gaither. The defendants could receive the death penalty if convicted of capital murder in the death of 39-year-old Gaither. The two are accused of beating Gaither to death with an ax handle in February and then burning his body atop a pile of kerosene-soaked tires.

Boy Scout Changes Are Happening

After working for the Boy Scouts of America (BSA) for 22 years in 1998 Chris Keener, a Sacramento man, was fired for being gay. A suit was filed with the Superior Court in California. Later the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America sent a memo to all the local BSA offices informing them that the practice of hiring private investigators to investigate the personal lives of employees is not permitted. Keener's attorneys have been contacted by the BSA attorneys, suggesting a meeting to discuss a settlement.

A couple of years ago the BSA formed a subsidiary called Learning For Life. Though owned and managed by the Boy Scouts of America it does not have the same membership standards, with the membership open to all, male, female, gay, straight, and is designed to meet the needs of low-income, at-risk youth. The program operates in classrooms during the school day.

Several years ago some school districts, municipalities and United Ways across the nation began eliminating Boy Scouts programs due to the policy of discrimination against gays. Recently, the BSA moved the Exploring division from under the jurisdiction of the BSA to Learning For Life, coed, young adult division of the BSA. Other divisions are Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Varsity Scouts. Cities were dropping their sponsorship of Law Enforcement, Fire, Medical, and other Explorer Posts due to the BSA's policy of discrimination. Now under the Learning For Life division those membership requirements no longer exist and cities are again considering the sponsorship of the Exploring program. Info: 415/647-2200.
